

Icelandic Sigur Rós, interview

Unlimite

With their fervent music, Icelandic Sigur Rós has kept their audiences around the world spellbound. The band plays at sell-out concert houses in USA and Japan and is called the greatest Icelandic name since Björk. You can meet them at this year's Roskilde Festival spearheading the new and barrier-bursting music.